Healthy Congregations

The Lombard Mennonite Peace Center provides a variety of programs in Christian peacemaking to churches, schools, and community groups. Healthy Congregations is a workshop designed by Peter Steinke, author of the books How Your Church Family Works: Understanding Congregations as Emotional Systems and Healthy Congregations: A Systems Approach. A key concept at the heart of Healthy Congregations is “self-differentiation,” people’s capacity to calmly articulate what they think and value, and to act on that basis, while staying in active relationship with those who disagree. This crucial training for both clergy and lay leaders is designed for presentation as a single, nine-hour workshop. It can be adapted for formats such as leadership retreats or an adult Sunday School series.

One possible outline for a weekend workshop would be:

- Friday: 7:00-9:30 — What is Systems Thinking?
Video Case Study: “The Anxious Congregation/The Responsible Congregation”
- Saturday: 9:00-10:30 — Healthy Congregations Respond to Anxiety
Healthy Congregations Invite Differentiation of Self
10:30-10:45 — Break
10:45-12:00 — Healthy Congregations Focus On Strength
Healthy Congregations Manage Conflict
12:00-1:00 — Lunch
1:00-2:30 — In Healthy Congregations, Leaders Challenge People
In Healthy Congregations, Leaders Focus On Mission
2:30-2:45 — Break
2:45-4:30 — In Healthy Congregations Leaders Promote Health Through Their Presence and Functioning
Planning For a Healthier Congregation

The facilitator for such a program would be either Richard Blackburn, LMPC Executive Director, or Bob Williamson, who serves with LMPC in an Adjunct Faculty role. All three are accredited training facilitators for the Healthy Congregations workshop. Moreover, LMPC staff have extensive training in family systems theory, as well as broad experience consulting with pastors and congregations from that theoretical framework. In order to continue the educational process after the workshop, LMPC books on promoting healthy congregational systems can be made available to participants.

Groups interested in exploring the possibility of hosting this event can contact the Lombard Mennonite Peace Center at the above address or phone number.
